To paraphrase The Kinks, Miami's Turnberry Ocean Club has some “exclusive residences for sale”—with one of the most unique amenities available to its high-end clientele.

The 54-story modern glass tower, designed by architects Carlos Zapata and Robert Swedroe, offers four separate luxury residence options: a three-bedroom (2,900–3,110 square feet); four-bedroom (3,625 square feet), five-bedroom (6,695 square feet); and six-bedroom (10,645 square feet). All residences include sweeping ocean views, access to three pools, optional membership privileges to a resort and country club, and five-star concierge services.

But the coolest perk of all? Through a partnership, Turnberry is offering access to the Fontainebleau Aviation facility, where residents can park their private jets. According to Michael Light of Miami Luxury Homes, the facility is currently undergoing a facelift that will make it the “largest private aviation facility in the state of Florida,” with a 12,000-square-foot canopy (see the concept art above).

The residences run anywhere from $4 million to $35 million. Take a short visual tour of some of the other amenities below.
